

Astroflame Company Information

Astroflame Fireseals Ltd manufacture and distribute a wide range of passive fire protection, finger protection and acoustic draught sealing systems for the construction industry throughout the UK and worldwide.

PRODUCTS:

We offer a comprehensive range of fire stopping products for use in walls, floors, ceilings, doors, ducts and other fire rated compartmentation structures.

Our finger protection range is the most comprehensive globally.

We have contract rate devices for schools, offices and industrial use through to high end designer devices for the most luxurious of establishments all with pedestrian safety in mind.

Fire doors play an ever increasing part in compartmentation issues and we have several products including fire rated air transfer grilles, drop down acoustic seals, fire rated letterboxes and door viewers.

Acoustic and Draught Weather sealing is ever more important in our new energy saving conscious world. We have it "sealed" with a compelling range covering many different applications so we are sure to have something to suit your requirement.

DOCUMENTATION:

This website, astroflame.com, contains pdfs for download of all our technical datasheets, coshh regulations, European technical approvals and installation notes and videos to simplify the process of specification, supply and fit.

All of our products are tested to the relevant BS, EN or third party approvals both Internationally and locally in country specific markets.

CERTIFICATION:

This year we have already launched a number of CE marked fire stopping products with several more to follow in the coming months all with the same vision of offering the most comprehensive range of scope and application of use for each system.

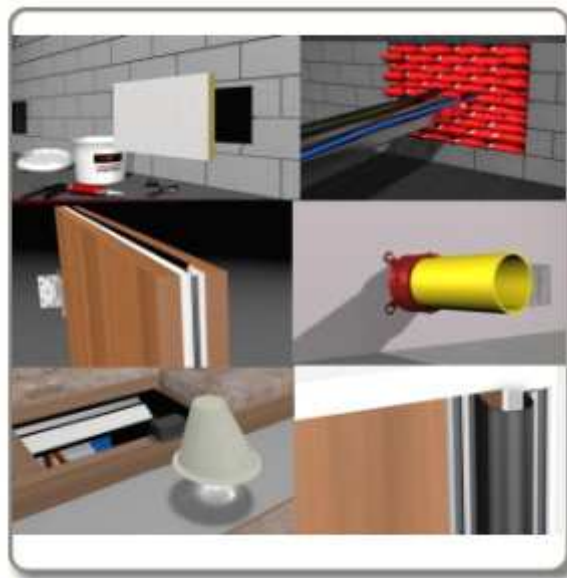

DISTRIBUTORS:

Products are available ex-stock in over 50 countries world-wide, with overnight AM delivery as standard in the UK and fast despatch by road, sea or air for world-wide destinations.

We are looking for new UK or international partners in many established or emerging markets please contact us for further information.
